

ZELLER

Sleeper Chair

People experiencing a mental health crisis may need different levels of support throughout their stay. At times, they may benefit from sitting upright to engage with care teams or participate in activities, while at other times they may need a comfortable place to recline, rest, or sleep.

Traditional clinical beds and gurneys can feel institutional and may not support a calm, therapeutic environment. The Zeller Sleeper

Chair provides an adjustable alternative, allowing patients to transition between an upright chair position and a flat position while remaining in their own personal space.

Designed for EmPATH units and other behavioral health settings, the Zeller Sleeper Chair supports comfort, dignity, and flexibility throughout assessment, treatment, and recovery.

The Environment is a treatment in itself

As part of the Zeller Sleeper Chair's development, the design was informed by Dr. Scott Zeller's extensive experience in emergency psychiatry and the needs of behavioral health environments.

His insight helped shape a chair focused on comfort, flexibility, and practical support for both patients and caregivers.

✓ DESIGNED IN ASSOCIATION WITH DR. SCOTT ZELLER

The Zeller Sleeper Chair was designed in association with Dr. Scott Zeller, an emergency psychiatrist with nearly 40 years of experience in behavioral healthcare and a leading advocate for EmPATH units (Emergency Psychiatric Assessment, Treatment and Healing).

Through his work developing EmPATH units around the world, Dr. Zeller identified the importance of creating calm, therapeutic environments where patients feel safe, comfortable, and supported.

His philosophy that “the environment is a treatment in itself” helped shape the Zeller Sleeper Chair, resulting in an inviting, adjustable seating solution that supports therapy, relaxation, and rest in emergency behavioral health and crisis care settings.

✓ SUPPORTS A CALMING
ENVIRONMENT

The Zeller Sleeper Chair adapts to different stages of a patient’s stay, providing a comfortable place to sit, engage, and rest. In the upright position, users can comfortably participate in conversations, assessments, group sessions, or everyday activities before transitioning to the flat position when they need to relax or sleep.

This flexibility helps reduce the need to move patients between different types of furniture, supporting a more consistent and comfortable experience throughout assessment, treatment, and recovery.

Everything about it is what I would want a chair with my name on it to be. It's going to be an incredible addition to any emergency behavioral health or crisis care facility.
